which I write, and in the last issue of which I had observed a letter from Brooklyn, full of positive assurances of Mr. he fled before. But he says that he hed Beecher's innocence and of its approach before; therefore he does not tell the truth ing vindication, which all men of good now. If a man says, "I lie,' does he lie or will desire so much to see. The editor of tells the truth, and if he tells the truth he that paper has just returned to me a letter lies. It is well-calculated to befor a jury VIDI. that he does not wish to publish anything on that subject ! - much les invthing par. Special Correspondence of the GAZETTE. tizan! Good for him.

It is my business to saw and to show that beyond the stenographic reports, the leading newspaper descriptions are amazingly incorrect and often unfairly colored-There is a reason why this must be so, besides the incapacity of the sab-editors who gct up these descriptions.
